LOCAL GYMNASIAC TEAM DOES WELL AT EDMONTON COMPETITIONS

The Crowns Consolidated High School gymnastics team concluded a very successful season. Seven of the eleven girls merited the right to represent the south west zone at the Jasper Place Composite High School in Edmonton.

The south west representatives were from CHS, LCI, Leithridge, and Matthew Halton, Pincher Creek. As a unit, the south west zone won the novice women's team trophy. As a zone, the south west zone won the non urban grand aggregate for the most points of the meet.

Patty Kundert of CHS placed first in the province as the novice women's all around gymnast. Patty also won another gold for mat competition and three other ribbons.

Margaret MacDonald of CHS placed second in the province in the novice women's all around gymnastics. Margaret also won three other ribbons.

Linda Colwell of CHS won the gold medal for the beam competition. Linda also won the gold medal at the south west zone competition for her ability on the beam.

Betty Fekete of CHS placed fourth on the beam. This was Betty's first year in gymnastics and she should be better next year.

Other members of the team were Debra Finn, Kim Earl and Joanne Dobek. These girls did not place in the top six. However, if you consider that there were over 100 girls from throughout the whole province competing, our girls did very well, especially in taking home the first and second positions in the province.

Mr. Castellarin, the girls' coach is very pleased with the gymnasts performance this year. The gymnastics program is as yet in its infancy, this being only the second year of its existence. The past season Mr. Castellarin has also trained some 35 elementary and junior high school girls for gymnastics. He hopes to continue his program next year.

The team would like to thank the school board, the CHS students union and the people of the Pass for their support during this year.

Poster Shows Do's and Don'ts Of Flying A Kite

TO ALL ALBERTA SCHOOL PRINCIPALS

The electric utility companies in Alberta are most concerned about the dangers inherent in kite flying. And they have worked together to provide a poster for your bulletin board that lists the DO's and DON'T's of flying a kite.

Every year young people are injured and maimed needlessly because they ignore, or are not aware of, a few simple safety rules. By following the safety rules shown on the posters, kite flying can remain the fun it is intended to be.

National Revenue Minister Herb Gray has announced the government's decision to review foreign takeovers of Canadian businesses.

"While Canada has generally welcomed foreign investment," the minister stated, "over the years we have adopted a number of measures to foster and protect the national interest. Foreign investment in banks and other key financial institutions has been limited by law. Our broadcasting facilities, newspapers and magazines are subject to specific laws which effectively keep them under Canadian control."

"During the past decade we established voluntary guidelines for good corporate behaviour by foreign businesses operating in this country. This government has also set up the Canada Development Corporation to help develop and maintain strong Canadian controlled businesses."

"The tax reform of last year contained several measures deliberately designed to encourage Canadians to invest in their own country rather than abroad, and to encourage the growth of Canadian controlled businesses."

"Now, parliament will be asked to adopt an important new measure to these policies. Foreign companies seeking to buy up or take over an existing Canadian business above a certain size will be required to demonstrate that the purchase will result in significant benefits to Canada. The government is introducing legislation to establish a review process under the authority of the Minister of Industry, safeguards our vital interests."

"In general terms the purpose will be to examine proposals for takeovers of Canadian businesses, to approve those that on balance will be of significant benefit to Canada, to negotiate with the proposed acquirer in those cases where he can reasonably be expected to make a greater contribution to Canadian development, and to refuse to allow those takeovers that would not bring significant benefit to Canada."

This new policy, while not being as economically nationalistic as many had hoped for, is certainly a step in the right direction. The government's objective is clearly an economy designed for more and more Canadian participation. Most of us, too soon, however, would have disastrous effects on many industries and developments.

Such situations Canada cannot afford at this time. "Our objectives as Canadians — which is to exercise greater control over our domestic environment — cannot be achieved by exclusive reliance on a takeover review process. As part of its response to this issue, the government will continue to develop positive policies to encourage Canadians to participate more fully in the development of their country, and to encourage the growth of Canadian sources of capital, technology and management. Our policy is designed to ensure that this country continues to develop as rapidly as possible in a way which is consistent with Canadian needs and aspirations and which safeguards our vital interests."

Mr. and Mrs. Les Owen and Mrs. Costanzo spent a week's holiday in Edmonton and Calgary.

Mrs. Violet Waveran was a weekend visitor with her family in Calgary, visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Russ Peake and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Waveran Jr. in Midnapore. While in Calgary she attended the CWL convention.

WCB Advisory Officer

In Coleman June 6

The Workmen's Compensation Board's Claims Advisory Service, now in its second year, has met with the approval of workmen and employers throughout Alberta.

Claims advisory officer, Gordon Long will be in Coleman, June 6 in Lethbridge, June 7 and 8 to discuss with individual workers or employers, any problems they may have in connection with claims or compensation.

Since its establishment in 1971, the staff and services of the Workmen's Compensation Board have grown to keep pace with the rapid development of business and industry in Alberta. Expansion has resulted in a diffusion of the board's personal relationship with workers and employers which was so much a part of its early experience. The claims advisory service has recapitulated this personal relationship, particularly in areas outside Calgary and Edmonton.

Those who wish to discuss specific claims with Mr. Long may write to him directly c/o The Workmen's Compensation Board, Box 2514, Edmonton, Alberta for an appointment. If possible, the claim number should be stated, although date of injury and name of employer will be helpful.

"Generally speaking, the problems presented are a cross-section of those usually presented to claims officers at head office during personal interviews," says Mr. Long. "The difference is that these people, because they live so far from head office would have few opportunities to present their cases in person if it were not for the claims advisory board."

NEW LAW

Did You Ever:

- Agree to buy something on credit?
- Not get what you bargained for?
- And still have to pay for it?
- If you did, you know how misleading and unfair it was.

But you should also know that now — because of a change in the law — you are protected better from this sort of thing happening in Canada.

Here's Why:

In the past, hundreds of Canadians have bought something on credit, and... but had to pay! —Got it, but it was defective... —and still had to pay!

—Got it, but the seller didn't honor a contract to service it... yet still had to pay!

Not very fair, obviously. In many cases, these hardships for consumers arose because of the law in this country regarding promissory notes.

Promissory Notes Have Worked This Way

Suppose you bought a set of books, or a household appliance, or anything, from a door-to-door salesman or from any merchant. And you bought it on credit. You signed a note by which you promised to pay the stated terms.

Whether you knew it or not, this was a promise to pay no matter what conditions arose. The seller, as regularly happens, sold your note to a financial institution to give himself ready cash. Then, you did not really owe the money to the man or company that you did business with. You owed it to the financial institution that had purchased your promise to pay.

Time and again, it has happened that the seller went out of business before he delivered your article. Or he misled you and what he delivered was not what you thought you were getting.

Or the article didn't work, and he wouldn't fix it. Or he contracted to provide regular servicing but didn't honour it.

You were not legally on firm ground in disputing the claim of a financial institution for payment even if you suffered because the shady ones.

2 The note or postdated cheque that you sign now must bear the words CONSUMER PURCHASE prominently and clearly. That's important, because those words mean that the note is special and that the unconditional payment terms of other promissory notes do not apply.

A last word: the change in the law does not mean that a person can get out of paying just debts. And it certainly does not mean that you shouldn't be very careful about every contract you sign. Read the fine print. Don't be afraid to insist on a day or two to read the contract over. Don't let anyone fast-talk you into signing anything on the spot. You'll save yourself a lot of trouble. This column was taken from an article from the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs.

Elks Report One Quarter Million Dollars In Aid

In a report to coincide with Speech and Hearing month, BPO Elks Lodge No. 117 and their auxiliary, the Order of the Royal Purple, have received a report from the national committee of the Elks Purple Cross informing them as to how the funds have been allocated to the early identification of the hard-of-hearing Canadian child.

The Elks have placed emphasis on alerting the general public concerning the need for the earliest possible identification of hearing-impaired children. They point out that much can be done to prevent a hearing-impaired child from being doomed to a world of silence if corrective measures can be implemented before that child is a year old.

The Elks are providing a public awareness campaign through outside billboards, radio, and brochures together with films and slides. A quarter of a million dollars has been spent in research projects and the establishment of clinical facilities in some areas.

The future plans include continuation of public awareness programs, financial assistance in rehabilitation of the hearing-impaired child by providing much needed equipment.

There is a shortage of professionally trained personnel and scholarships may be made available to those wishing to take special training to assist the young hearing impaired.

Justice Or Revolution?

We have always had a great respect for responsible unions and the efforts they achieve for their membership.

But like most Canadians, the time has come when we must ask ourselves: "Are the unions now so powerful in British Columbia, the Maritimes and Quebec they are going to rule—or is their present power, with no responsibility, going to bring us down in ashes?"

One of Canada's great economists recently said "... with union members not heeding their leaders or the laws of the land, with repeated strikes, governments must now allow for productivity and tax loss in their budgets, which in turn results in legislative guidelines being applied where wages are concerned to control inflation and unemployment."

The recent Quebec labor picture is one of ruthless union irresponsibility. Like any other government today, wage guidelines had to be set with the result school teachers, hospital workers, police, civil servants and others began all-out strike action. In the public interests, to care (for the sick and aged in hospitals and school children), the provincial government passed stringent labor legislation.

In spite of this legislation, Quebec union leaders Louis Laberge, Marcel Pepin and Yvon Charbonneau urged their members to keep striking and employ militant activities. Finally, to disregard government labor legislation.

The three men were brought to trial and along with six other female union members given jail sentences. These sentences resulted in wholesale labor strikes and riots throughout the province to a point where troops were considered to keep the peace.

Also, during the strike, school teachers in Hull, Quebec, used sticks to hit students trying to cross teacher picket lines outside schools; hospital workers dumped beds in hospitals with semi-invalided sick; strikers broke store windows and minor looting was reported.

In our considered opinion there is just no justifiable reason for this type of activity on the part of a responsible union.

Like other Canadians, if we break the law and are found guilty, we must pay the penalty. What makes union leaders any different than other Canadians who break laws?

The time has now arrived when government and union leaders coupled with industrial management must sit down and legislate fair and stern measures with emphasis of some relief to a weary Canadian public. Added to this should be the assurance union leaders can keep their membership informed and on the job. That all parties through the process of law put a stop to wild-cat strikes, militant violence and vandalism to innocent parties.

This is supposed to be an age of decent civilized people — not animals who would injure school children and shirk their responsibility to the sick.

This country, divided as it is, cannot stand anarchy at this stage.

The Federal Budget - Applying Band Aids

New Item — The federal budget brought down Monday amounts to "sticking band aids on a sick elephant," is the opinion of Phil C. Barter, president of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of British Columbia.

Like many other newspapers, The Review feels the Turner budget holds out one goodie for Western Canada but in reality is a thinly veiled electioneering gimmick to maintain the Ontario and Quebec vote. We arrive at this conclusion because of the reduction in corporate tax rate and a speed-up in write-offs of capital assets bought for use in manufacturing or processing industries, which are mainly located in the two eastern provinces and to some extent in the central provinces noted for secondary manufacturing.

It is to be hoped this veiled legislation will include the sick and failing pulp industry in British Columbia.

The only goodie to come to the west is the one concession in the form of depletion allowance on equipment bought to processing mineral ores in the prime metal stages — a situation very dear to Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

But in between the lines, one can read the lowering of tariffs on imports from developing countries could pose hazards for B.C. These developing nations, if government agency statistics are correct, export raw materials—most B.C. industries are raw material producers.

It was to be hoped the finance minister would have brought in some wage and price controls which is becoming more and more necessary if Canada wishes to compete in the large USA market which is vital to our standard of living.

Odd Choice

That external affairs minister Mitchell Sharp, who is not only number two man in the cabinet but also Prime Minister Trudeau's senior English-speaking lieutenant, should pick national unity as the major issue in the "forthcoming" federal election is nothing less than astonishing.

Most Canadians would be inclined to pick any of half-a-dozen other national problems as being more important on which to fight an election at this time. Such matters as unemployment, inflation, industrial unrest, foreign ownership, pollution, trade, taxation and general government efficiency, to name a few, surely must take priority on the basis of public need alone over the still somewhat nebulous question of Canadian unity.

As might well be recalled, the Trudeau party fought the last election on national unity through the use of a largely contrived but nevertheless persuasive campaign designed to show the voters that the Liberals were the only party which would or could hold Canada together as one nation.

The campaign was enormously successful inasmuch as it was aided and abetted by a tangle-tongued Conservative leader who just couldn't get his ideas across to the public.

However, that was four years ago and much has happened since then. In that time the Liberal government, for all its boasts about national oneness has done little to demonstrate either its ability or desire to strengthen Canadian unity. Indeed, if anything, the situation has worsened.

And in that time the Conservative Party has emerged as a responsible, credible and even desirable alternative to the present government.

With its record of non-accomplishment in the field of national unity, the average Canadian might well think that it would be a subject to be avoided by the Liberal administration rather than touted as a major election issue.

It appears that though Mr. Stanfield has succeeded in untangling his tongue, Mr. Sharp has problems of unscrambling his thoughts.

TAKE A LESSON

(Taken from the Western Producer, issue — Thursday, May 4, 1972)
.08 test not tough.
When the legislation which allows authorities to require suspected drunk drivers to submit to a breath analysis test was first introduced in Canada, there was an outcry about the invasion of personal freedom, and police state tactics. Those who still feel that ".08 test" is a travesty of justice might take a look at how drunken drivers fare in other countries.
Here are a few examples, presented recently in a Saskatchewan Safety Council newsletter:
—In Australia, the names of drunk drivers are sent to the local newspapers and are printed under the headline, "He (or she) is drunk and in jail."
—In Malaya, the drunk is jailed, and if he is married, his wife goes with him.
—In South Africa, the drunken driver is given a 10 year jail sentence, or a fine of $3000, or both.
—In Turkey, drunk drivers are taken 20 miles out into the country and forced to walk back under escort.
—In San Salvador, drunk drivers are executed by the firing squad. Maybe that .08 test isn't severe after all.

Preventive Social Services

By CHARLES T. GALE

Last Thursday and Friday, I attended the 18th annual conference of the Alberta Council on Aging held at the University of Lethbridge. The conference was made up of a series of workshops entitled "The Fundamentals of Aging." About 100 people from various parts of the province attended, representing senior citizens' clubs, community organizations, and government agencies involved in work with senior citizens.

A wide variety of subjects were dealt with. On Thursday, there were workshops on senior citizen housing and community planning, drop-in-centres, senior citizens as volunteers and the role of the church.

On Friday, the workshops dealt with: pre-retirement education, information services, memorial societies, and services to senior citizens in their homes. As well as these subjects, other things were discussed such as handicrafts, travelling and recreation for senior citizens.

The conference provided an opportunity to view the whole spectrum of senior citizen involvement and was also a good opportunity to exchange ideas and pick up new ones.

I think that one of the things that impressed me most at the conference was to talk to some of the senior citizens who were there and hear about some of their vigorous activities. They seemed to be living anything but a sedentary life in their retirement. They were full, cheerful and really seemed to be "turned on" to life.

A speaker at the conference said that he thought that senior citizens need to feel they are retiring to something rather than from something. The senior citizens I talked to certainly seemed to have received the message. One man, a retired business man from Edmonton, told me how he assisted a number of senior citizens' club in his area in their organizational operations and undertook numerous speaking engagements to talk to community groups on behalf of senior citizens.

A lady talked about her work as editor of a senior citizens newspaper. Largely through her efforts as editor of this newspaper, an historical building which was scheduled for demolition was saved and restored.

Another senior citizen talked with considerable excitement about his forthcoming trip to Ottawa where he and some other senior citizens will form a delegation to meet with the Minister of Health to discuss some of their concerns about the welfare of senior citizens.

For people like these, retirement has no meant withdrawal from life. Rather, it has meant an opportunity to explore new horizons while keeping actively engaged in society. The senior citizen has two choices when he reaches the age of retirement: he can either sit back and vegetate and turn in on himself or else he can turn to other areas that interest him, explore their potential and remain an active, useful, and interesting member of his community.

Horoscope

THIS IS YOUR LIFE

By TRENT VARRO

DON'T PAY TO HAVE YOUR HOROSCOPE READ

— READ IT HERE !!!

ARIES—March 21 to April 20

It's fairly certain that you'll receive news from a distant point, that at first, may not seem to be good. After careful consideration you'll see that this is "good news!"

TAURUS—April 21 to May 20

There's a slight chance that from the last week in May to the middle of October things may not be so "lucky." It might be a good idea to prepare for this now, while the sun is still shining. But, hold on, you have much still to gain.

GEMINI—May 21 to June 20

"Mixed emotions" might play quite a part in your life at this time. You're getting a lot of help from the stars, and by acting sensibly you can sail through this brief period with ease.

CANCER—June 21 to July 21

Be careful especially in travel or traffic. This is not a poor aspect, for you, but it could lead to trouble with those around you. Legal aspects are not too well favoured, and it's a good time to stay out of "entanglements."

LEO—July 22 to August 21

Luck, popularity, and social activity is indicated for Leo. A holiday of some sort may be coming up, but be cautious in water activities. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

VIRGO—August 22 to Sept. 21

The only two planets affecting your solar chart are those ruling communications and your love life. These will pass quickly. Otherwise everything looks extremely good!

LIBRA—Sept. 22 to Oct. 22

Slow down and THINK before you act on some impulsive action. You MAY be right, but for goodness sake, make sure that you are, before jumping to drastic conclusions.

SCORPIO—Oct. 23 to Nov. 21

Money matters are most important right now for those born in Scorpio. This may mean money coming in, or money being paid out. Your chart indicates success either way.

SAGITTARIUS—Nov 22 to Dec. 20

The chart for Sagittarius closely resembles Virgo and Libra. You should read these, and apply them to yourself. There's a slight chance that you'll lose your temper. DONT.

CAPRICORN—Dec. 21 to Jan. 19

There's a slight possibility this week, that Capricorn persons MIGHT find themselves involved in a legal dispute. Seek the advice of a good lawyer, and listen carefully to this advice.

AQUARIUS—Jan. 20 to Feb. 18

Everything should be "calm and peaceful" right now for Aquarius individuals. If it's not, it's due to something else in your own personal chart. Things generally look GOOD!

PISES—Feb. 19 to Mar. 20

The horoscope for Pisces is right now very much as it is in Aquarius, which you should read. If you're past middle age, you should be reaping great benefits; if you're younger, this period has yet to come.
